

ACE HOUSE

A Therapeutic Bed and Breakfast

The Atlanta Center for Eating Disorders (ACE) has been providing day treatment and intensive outpatient programs since 1993. ACE's highly effective, integrated approach uses extensive education and cognitive-behavioral techniques to treat eating disorders, while also focusing on relationship and emotional difficulties.

ACE House is located across the street from ACE's central facility in Dunwoody, Georgia. Guests are expected to attend the ACE Intensive Outpatient Program and may extend their stays as they taper down from intensive treatment and seek full-time, part-time or volunteer work. Licensed to operate as a Personal Care Home, ACE House offers a comfortable, secure and convenient residential option to any program participants who:

- have no intensive treatment options in their local area.
- cannot live at home while in intensive treatment.
- are completing other residential programs and need to step down in the Atlanta area.
- do not require inpatient treatment but would benefit from intensive treatment.

Evoking the ambiance of a "suburban Bed and Breakfast," ACE House is decorated with a warm blend of folk art and antique furnishings. Four spacious bedrooms allow residents to choose single or double occupancy, and the four updated bathrooms provide easy access from anywhere in the house.

Other features of the home include a fully equipped kitchen, dining areas, game room, family room, library and laundry room. The huge backyard deck is perfect for cookouts and other seasonal outdoor activities. There is ample parking, and public transportation is conveniently available. ACE House is within walking distance of a large public park, four welcoming churches and several support group meetings.

Breakfast is served each morning at ACE House, and detailed menus are posted weekly. Meal planning, cooking lessons, community meetings and other services complement recovery skills taught in the ACE program.
